DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 1-27-2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
3. Claims 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Thornberg et al (US 6,097,700) in view of Pregont(US 5,351,245 cited previously) .

Thornberg et al disclose a means for forming logical channels and a means for mapping the logical channel to a physical channel and a means for transmitting the logical channel signals over the physical channel. See Fig.2 and col. 4, lines 64-66.

First, Thornberg et al does not describe the structure of the logical channel with respect to the error correction code added to data in the channel. Pregont teaches generating the signal of the logical channel by adding an error correcting code, specifically CRC, on a unit by unit basis. See Fig.3A illustrating CRC coding. Thus, it is obvious to compute and add an error correction code such as CRC to the data carried in the logical channel for error correcting purposes the receiver.

Art Unit: 2611

Second, Thornberg et al fails to teach that the number of radio frames of a fixed duration increases the transmission rate of the physical channel decreases.

Thornberg et al teaches that one of the logical channels has 10 ms slots, i.e., "radio frames." Since the same amount of information must be transmitted, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art increase the number of time slots when the transmission rate is lowered in order to ensure the same amount of data to be transmitted regardless of a lowered rate.
